Nature makes the cures after all.

Now and then she gets into a tight place and needs helping out.

Things' get started in the wrong direction.

Something is needed to check disease and start the system in the right direction toward health.

Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with hypophosphites can do just this.

It strengthens the nerves, feeds famished tissues, and makes rich blood.

A MOTHER'S ADVICE TO OTHER MOTHERS

Mrs. Nicholas Brown, Rosedale, N.Y., writes:—“I am highly concerned about Baby.” Our Tablets to all mothers whose little ones are constipated. I gave my little girl the Tablets and they regulated her bowels and now she has no trouble at all and goes and goes all the time. I am really delighted with the Tablets and I always keep them in the house and as soon as my little girl becomes constipated or feverish I give her the Tablets and she is soon well again. Please send me another box for they are the very best thing I have ever had.”—Baby list. Don’t fail to try for we give full money refund if you are not satisfied. C. H. If one has to be poor how delightful it would be to be independent, but no man ever yet simultaneously achieved both conditions.

Working Both Ends

“Madam,” began the husky knight of the road as he stopped by the roadside. “The lady in the next cottage says she should be home now. Will you tell me whether she gives me a dinner or not?”

“Well, what have you to do with it?” asked the busy housewife.

“Nuttin’ in particular, m’m, only I thought you’d give me a penny to tuck up.”

An American attorney was addressing an old man on behalf of a prisoner.

“Gentlemen,” he said, “witnesses have sworn that when you were hit his gun, they have sworn they saw the flash and heard the report; they have sworn they saw Pete Jackson fall; that he had sworn that he was bullet-proof; that Pete Jackson’s body, but, gentlemen, in the name of justice, I ask you where is the evidence that the bullet hit Pete Jackson?”

Gentle Hint

“I suppose you don’t show much strength,” remarked the new partner in the firm. “In other words, what will you wait on a guest regardless of what he looks like?”

“Yes,” laughed the pretty waitress, smilingly, “I’ll wait on him with much more courtesy if he looks like to be liberal.”

Small boy (applying for situation)—

What kind of a boy do you want? Merchant—A nice quiet boy, that doesn’t use bad words, smoke cigars, etc., which I can’t stand, play tricks, get into mischief.

Small Boy—You don’t want no boy; you want a girl.

Minard's Liniment Cures Dandruff.

Cheese It!

“What do boys mean when they say ‘cheese’?”

It means that something mischievous has a card and they want to make a why?”

A Pleasant Purgative—Parmelee's Vegetable Pills are so compounded to operate on both the stomach and the bowels, so that they act along the alimentary canal, exerting a passage. They are not drastic in their work, but mildly purgative and the pleasure of taking them is only equalled by the gratification of producing.

Compounded only of vegetable substances, the curative qualities of which are fully tested, they need never without a chance of injury.

Parliament is considering a bill which requires passengers to vessels leaving British ports for voyages of 20 miles or more to be equipped with lifebelts and lifejackets.

Shiloh's Cure
quickly stops coughs, cures colds, heals the throat and lungs. • 25 cents.

According to the Smithsonian Institution, recent investigations of geologists have shown that the earth is less than 55,000,000 and less than 70,000,000 years old.

A Thorough Pill—To clear the body of all disease and irritants is necessary when their action is irregular. The pills will then do their thorough work. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills, which are in action but might not result. They purge painlessly and effectively, and work in permanent cure. They do not irritate the body by the most delicate constituents, nor have painful effects preceding their gentle operation.

Warts are ugly blotches, and corns are painful growths. Hello-way's Corn Cure will remove them.

Hi, Ma's a Hit

Binkley—“My grannie, oh man, you are all bangoed up. Cracklin’—You have hit it.”

Binkley—“What did you do—dispute the way of with an automobile?”

Cracklin’—“No. Took a step too much.”

Binkley—“Why, I didn’t know you cracklin’—I don’t.”

Cracklin’—“The drop I took was from an aeroplane twenty feet from the ground.”

Brave as a Boy

Weigler—I see that Gaußer has been given a Carnegie hero medal for his gallantry.

Matchkeetey—“Well, he probably deserved it. He always was brave! I remember when he was a boy that he was the only one in the neighborhood who would go to his mother when she beckoned with one hand and held the other behind her back.”

One on the Captain

An old lady who had been leaning over the rail to watch the passengers as they came up the gangplank suddenly approached the Captain.

“Please tell me sir,” she asked timidly, “what time the boat starts.”

“It starts, Madam, when I give the signal.”

“Oh, indeed! I didn’t start when the engineer pulled the lever. Thank you very much.”

Where He Couldn't Loss It

Plushed and breathless, the well-dressed young man picked up the hat he had been chasing down the street and handed it to a lampost to rest. Another, also breathless, finally, came running up and took the hat out of his hands.

“I’m much obliged,” he said.

“This is my hat.”

“Where’s mine, then?”

“Hanging behind you at the end of a string.”

He walked over to the instrument, took down the receiver, and put his mouth to the transmitter, just as he had seen others do.

“Hello!” answered the voice at the other end of the line. “Is this eight o’clock?”

by DR. CHASE'S NERVE FOOD

Pain is often a blessing in disguise. For when you suffer you get in earnest and live life.

Many who are in a really serious condition from nervous exhaustion do not realize that they are in danger because they feel well.

They are weak and easily fatigued, their digestive system lacks the necessary vigor to digest food, appetite is poor and interest in life seems wanting. Some have dizzy spells and fainting spells, as had the writer of this letter, before realizing the danger they are in.

The Range With A Perfect Oven

The oven of a Sask-Alta Steel Range roasts and bakes perfectly. It is so constructed that the distribution of heat is always even. The turkey or joints cook to a crisp brown on all sides. The puddings, breads and pies always come out of the Sask-Alta oven evenly baked. Another advantage is size. It takes the largest joint or the biggest turkey—and four ten inch pies can be set side by side. Added to all this, the oven is properly ventilated so gas or fumes never affect food. The McClary thermometer always indicates accurately the proper degree of heat for any purpose. The nickel-steel lining can't bulge or warp—can't burn out; won't admit dust. As the nearest McClary agent to point out the many other points of merit found in the Sask-Alta alone. Write now for the Sask-Alta booklet. Address the nearest McClary branch.

Sask-Alta Steel Range

Press Convention at Lethbridge

It was the privilege of the editor of this paper to attend the Alberta and eastern B.C. Press Convention held at Lethbridge on Thursday and Friday of last week, and to be the guest of the Lethbridge Board of Trade while there. The meeting was the best ever held by the Association and much business of interest to the Association was transacted.

Several papers were read and discussed, among the most important being a paper on the "Law of Libel," by Mr. Ives, a barrister of Lethbridge, and the "Relation of Local Newspapers on Municipal Questions," by F. W. Galbraith of Red Deer.

On Thursday afternoon, the members of the Association were treated to an automobile ride around the city, and in the evening were entertained at a splendid banquet given by the Board of Trade at which everything served up was grown in the Lethbridge district. On Friday afternoon, through the courtesy of the A. R. & I. Co., the visitors were taken by special train to Big Mine No. 6 and then to Raymond to visit the large best sugar factory. Most of the visitors who were present had not seen either of these big industries in operation and were greatly surprised at their immensity.

The city of Lethbridge with its wide streets, fine buildings and up-to-date stores, and the hustle and bustle of its citizens is bound to be a large factor, not only in the history of the south, but of the whole province.

Before we close this article, we feel we would not be doing justice to the people of Lethbridge without expressing our thanks for the kind reception accorded us in our visit, and in stating that it will long live in our memories as one of the most pleasant visits we have ever made at any place.

The city of Lethbridge has about two score and ten new boosters throughout the West. Probably it has many, many times that number, but it converted the two score and ten at a meeting held in Lethbridge last week, and they are all newspaper men.—Albertan.

A little fellow six years old, by the name of Stevenson, living at the Little Red Deer, west of Innisfail, accidentally shot himself last week, death being instantaneous. It is thought that he went to get a gun to shoot some geese, although nothing definite is known as there was no one in the house at the time.

The C. P. R. is going to erect one of their large up-to-date hotels in Calgary.

"Bachelor's Honeymoon"

There are so many so-called comedies on the road that it seems impossible to always know when to go to see one and when to remain at home. Who ever heard of a Hoyt comedy disappointing an audience? We have one coming and it is safe to say that we may patronize and get our money's worth. No play has ever been in this section which was so praised by press and public. Manager Henning of the Opera House is recommending "A Bachelor's Honeymoon" as one of his leading attractions. Not only is it a comedy which stood the test of a New York continuous season, but it is more than just any comedy on the road today and is not to be classed with the ordinary shows. It will be here on Saturday, October 29th.

The Man From Brodney's

By GEORGE BARR
M'GUTCHEON

Copyright, 1908, by Dodd, Mead & Co.

"I say, Geneva, what's the news? demanded his lordship. "Where is Chase?"

Now, the princess, it is most distressing to state, had wilfully avoided Mr. Chase since early that morning.

"Pardon me, Your Highness," I said dinner with Mrs. Browne in her room. I fancy he's off attending to the guard I have seen him."

"Nice chap," remarked Deppington. "Isn't that you're speaking to Agnes out there?"

Geneva looked up quickly. A man's voice came in to them from the balcony, following Lady Deppington's soft laugh.

"No," she said, settling back calmly. "It's Mr. Brodney."

"Oh, I say, Brodney, a slight shadow coming into his eyes. "Nice chap, too," he added a moment later.

"I don't like him," said she, lowering her voice.

"I've no doubt Agnes is as much to blame as he," said his lordship at last.

"Why don't you marry him?"

"She's made a fool of more than one man, dear. She rather likes it."

"It's behaving like a fool! They've been married three years."

"He really doesn't amount to anything, Geneva," he argued. "It will blow over in a fortnight. Aggy's always doing this sort of thing, you know."

"Yes, Aggy," she said, sharply. "But this man is different. He's not a gentleman. Mr. Brodney wasn't a gentleman. Blood tells. He will boast of his flirtation until the end of his days."

"Aggy's best dozens of men in love with her—really in love," he protested feebly. "She's not!"

"They've come and gone, and she's still the same old Agnes, and you're the same old Depp. I'm not thinking of you or Aggy. It's Brodney Brown."

"I see. Thanks for the confidence. You have in Agnes. I know now how foolish I feel. I've lived twice my turn over two myself lately, and—but never mind. By the way, what does Chase say about it?" he asked suddenly.

She started and caught her breath. "Mr. Chase? He—he hasn't said anything about it," she responded firmly. "He's—he's not that sort."

"Ah," reflected Deppington. "Is a gentleman?"

Geneva flushed. "Yes, I'm sure he is."

"I say, Geneva," he said, looking straight into her rebellious eyes. "You're in love with Chase. Why don't you marry him?"

"You—you are really delicious, Depp."

"The letter box?"

"He's good enough for any one—even you," went off on his lordship coolly.

"He may have a wife," said she, collecting her wits with rare swiftness. "Who knows? Don't be silly, Depp."

"Rubbish! Hasn't he got a wife?" he grumbled. "One of the things you found out concerning him before he left Thorberg, and afterward—the letters from the ambassador's wife and the glowing things your St. Petersburg friends have to say of him, eh? Besides, he'd give his head to marry you—having already lost it."

"I'm not so clever, Depp. When you try to be clever, is there a clause in that silly old will compelling me to marry any one?"

"Of course not, my dear princess, but I fancy you've got a will of your own. Where there's a will there's a way. You'll marry him tomorrow if I let."

"If I were not amply prepared to contest my own will?" she supplied dryly.

"No; if your will was not wrapped in a parchment three centuries old, you won't marry Chase because you are a princess. I'm awfully sorry for you, Geneva."

"Sorry for me? Dear me!"

"You're tremendously gone on him."

"Nonsense! Why, I couldn't marry Mr. Brodney if he were the Devil himself. I don't put such things into my head—I mean don't get such things into that ridiculous old head of yours. Are you forgetting that I am to come home Karl's wife in June? You are babbling, Depp."

"Well, let's say no more about it," he said, smiling apologetically. "I don't bad, that's all. Chase is a man Karl isn't. You torture him. I don't wonder that you turn pale and look frightened. Take my advice—take Chase."

"Don't!" she cried, a break in her voice. She arose and went swiftly toward the window. Then she stopped and turned to face him again, poised as if to give utterance to the thing that was stirring her heart so violently. The words would not come. She smiled plumply and said instead:

"Good night! Get a good sleep."

"The same to you," she called feverishly.

"Depp?" she said, settling back calmly. "It's Mr. Brodney."

"Oh, I say, Brodney, a slight shadow coming into his eyes. "Nice chap, too," he added a moment later.

"I don't like him," said she, lowering her voice.

her hand seemed to be in the clutch of some invisible force. The light flickered and died in her fingers. A blush crept over her face, her eyes, her neck. Then, with a guilty smile, a tender smile, she dropped the cigarette into the drawer. She turned the key.

"No," she said to herself; "I told him that I was keeping them for him."

LADY ERSKINE'S CAREER.

Woman Who Died Mysteriously Was a Trained Nurse.

Great interest has been excited all over the world over the mysterious death of Lady Marjorie Erskine, who had been missing a month when her body was found by a workman, who was searching for white leather on the Scottish moors.

Lady Marjorie (whose full name was Mary Elizabeth Glancy Stewart) was born in 1860, so that she was just thirty years of age.

Sister was the daughter of the three pretty daughters of Lord and Lady Buchan, her sisters being Lady Muriel, who married the Hon. Charles Heathcote-Tutville, Willoughby, Earl of Ailesbury, and Lady Evelyn, who was the wife of the Hon. Walter Glancy, youngest son of Viscount Iveagh.

With dark brown hair and dark eyes, Lady Marjorie was very popular in society, and she surprised her friends a few years ago when she announced her determination to become a hospital nurse.

She went through a thorough training at Guy's Hospital, and then became a matron in the Clarence Ward of the Childs Hospital in Great Ormond street.

Wearing a pink cotton gown, with the regulation white cuffs, collar and cap, and a white apron, she was known as "Nurse Erskine" and the matron and sisters knew that she was really Lady Marjorie Erskine.

Like other probationers, Lady Marjorie had to undergo a period of probation, and went on night duty, also taking her share of the hard work, even helping to scrub out the wards but her health did not stand the strain, and she had to give it up after a year's training.

One morning the members of Lord and Lady Buchan's family, who were devoted to animals and for a time looked after a home for the welfare of cats and dogs.

Lady Marjorie, however, was greatly interested in the announcement that a marriage had been arranged between Lady Marjorie and the Hon. Arthur Brodney, youngest brother of Viscount Iveagh.

The engagement came as a surprise, as Mr. Brodney is a well-known and very popular man about town, who was born in 1865 and comes from the west of England.

The surprise, however, was a great one, as in less than a fortnight's time the announcement was made that the engagement had been broken off.

The reason given was that the wedding had been fixed for less than a month later, the names had been published in church, and wedding presents were being received.

Death of Major Hume.

R. B. Cunningham-Graham gives a charming appreciation in the Saturday Review of Major Hume, the author of "The Last Days of the English," who recently died at his home in London.

Major Hume had just been buried in a traditional mood. He encountered a Canadian customs officer in uniform and asked who owned a yacht which was anchored in the river. "Oh, I say, that's mine," he said. "Look here, my man, Canadian porters have a way of being very impudent, so I'll speak to them."

"What's that?" said the American, "I thought you were a Canadian?"

"Oh, I say, I'm not a Canadian," said the Canadian, "I'm a Canadian port," he said, "and I'm a Canadian port."

"Well, I say, I'm not a Canadian," said the American, "I'm a Canadian port."

"What's that?" said the Canadian, "I thought you were a Canadian?"

Juvenile Offenders

The child offender has until the last few years been a source of perplexity to police courts. The old idea of punishing an eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth, was constantly held before culprit and judge. The child was discharged or committed. The result in either case was the development of a precociousness in the child to evade the results of wrong doing, and a recognition on the part of those who were wholly interested in the welfare of children, of the inadequacy of such a system to inculcate the principles of reparation and correction.

The Probation System is an outgrowth of this need. At the present time the judge treats the child much as a school teacher a pupil who has made an error in arithmetical calculation and is required to work out his problem again under direction. The judge has before him a report on the home condition surrounding the child and contributing to his becoming a delinquent. The child is shown why he must make reparation. He is given to understand that there is a higher principle at work than what he probably considers a species of retaliation.

He is not sent back alone to his old condition, as formerly, but is placed under the supervision of a probation officer, a clear headed, sound hearted individual who volunteers to give the boy a friendly hand, to take an interest in his work, his companions, his amusements. The probation officer is willing to advise the boy when he needs it, to warn him of the consequences of persistent delinquency and to see that he is deprived of privileges or otherwise punished according to his offence.

In nearly every case where children have come under the influence of probation, they have responded immediately, and according to the reports of probation officers throughout the province, have become all and in many cases more than had been expected.

The Superintendent of Neglected Children, Edmonton, calls for volunteers from every city and town in the Province of Alberta to act in the capacity of "big brothers" to the mischievous children whose misguided energy, if not promptly steered by a firm friendly hand, will lead them into the ranks of confirmed criminals. Ninety-five per cent. of our child delinquents need only such direction to become honest, industrious and in every way desirable citizens.

Census Bulletin

The Census Office has published a Bulletin on the condition of crops in Canada at the end of September. The report shows lower averages of condition for the whole of Canada than those of a year ago, but the reduction applies chiefly to the Northwest provinces. In the eastern provinces a high per cent. is maintained for nearly all the crops, and quantity and quality are nearly as good as a year ago and better than two years ago.

In Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta there is a drop of about twenty per cent. in the quality of grains and roots, but the threshings indicate that the yield will be larger for wheat, oats and barley than was promised at the end of August. For the whole of Canada the condition of rye at the end of September was 83.59, which is ten per cent. better than two years ago and 2.9 per cent. than last year. Peas and beans are nearly eight per cent. lower in condition than a year ago, but nearly ten per cent higher than 1908.

Buckwheat is about the same as last year, and 12 per cent. better than in 1908, whilst mixed grains are better by five per cent., than last year and by 19 per cent. better than two years ago.

Corn for husking compared for the three years 1910, 1909 and 1908 show percentages of 84.12, 86.77 and 82, and corn for fodder of 89.82, 87.88 and 92 for the respective years. The condition of potatoes is 76.08 at the end of September compared with 90.37 last year, of turnips 82.09 to 86.34 and of sugar beets 83.13 to 71.00, whilst in 1908 their condition ranged from 68 to 74.

Alfalfa has a condition of 83.30 for the end of September, and it exceeds the record of the Martinique crop of 81.09. In Quebec and the Northwest provinces, it is not more than 70 per cent. and in British Columbia it is 88.3. All field grains in the last named province exceed 82 per cent.

The estimated yield of rye this year for the whole of Canada is 1,000,000 bushels, of lucerne 1,080,000 bushels of buckwheat 7,302,000 bushels, of mixed grains 29,103,000 bushels, of flax 4,314,000 bushels and of corn for husking 17,682,000 bushels. The average bushels per acre of these crops is 19.43 to 19.78 for buckwheat, 20.54 for corn for mixed grains, 9.04 for flax and 53.82 for corn. Better averages for wheat, oats and barley are assured when the final returns are made in December than the reports for the end of August gave.

Alberta a Paradise

The Lord wished to show His love to His creatures, and He did so in His love. That love is kept in His store. And hence would give some bright land Samples of blessings from His right hand. If you have there's no room for me. But listen to how God reckoned about it: "These gifts I cannot give to both man and the East,"

The Father is too damp for both man and the East,

And the Northern States I consider together,

I made a mistake when I put up the weather; For the cyclone, tempest and cold,

No one can enjoy good gifts I am told.

Hence Westward I'll go.

To the land where the fig and the orange tree

Are the only fruit that grow there,

But here it is true a beautiful land,

But then the wretched fog, the dust, and the sand,

And those who enjoy these gifts as they must

Cast them in the sand, the fog, and the dust."

At last reaching Alberta, a son of some size,

He decided to give up the capital price,

And buy a farm. His heart was set,

He dispensed his blessings all over the land.

And as for these blessings of ours

We have, eight months in the year,

Very many beautiful flowers,

And nights most delightful, fanned by the breeze

That comes sweeping across her from the west,

With the mountain air,

And Italy's skies with our own won't compare,

Nor is her land more fertile or ladies more fair,

And the grasses that grow on these ranges of ours,

Are kept beautifully green by the sweet sun-shine,

And as we know to enjoy our wealth

We must first secure the blessings of health.

Hence we declare to the sick in each clime,

That you can have if you come here in time.

And now to our friends in the east, south and west,

We want you to come here and with us be welcomed,

For God never intended that we all alone

Should enjoy all these blessings

That He has bestowed.

Soliloquy

To be killed, or scared to death; that is the question.
Whether 'tis better to grow fat than thin.
Being fat is yesterdays and to-morrow's tea.
Unfriendly to the germs that lurk therein;
Or to take arms against the bacteria hordes,
To sterilize, to Pasteurize, to boil, to chew,
To purify, to wash, to soak, to end it all.
The stomach aches and all衙门 not a few,
That flesh is heir to. 'Tis a consummation
Deserved to be wished. Chewing is good,
But what is good to chew? Ay, there's the rub.

We must not chew adulterated food,
And what is vice? The vegetarian says, "Naught with eves is proper food for

Alas for all the habits of the race!

Meat and potatoes fall beneath this ban,
"Quack" foods are to blame," says A. B. Tamm.

"The increasing races," says "Power-Z,"
Says "You quite forget the Japanese." Thus everlasting they disagree,
Anger, fear, question, and criticism.

Till now, we edify ourselves, and are
Except, for those who like it, butter milk,
And for a treat, occasionally, rice,

All, who we trust, are on guard

Against the germs in hake, or every kiss,

In every cup, in every breath of air,

When he might easily escape from this World, he is bound to stay,

But for the paralytic, pale face

Of meeting after death the souls of germs.

That he has slaughtered in cold blood

Purchased, I tell, but off it seems to me

In certain restless, asthmatic moods

That I would gladly give my Near Tea,

Neat-Coffe, and the latest breakfast foods

To the world, and the world to me.

On pack and pickles, apple pie and cheese;

To all as my ancestors have died;

Of the great family of orthodox disease,

And if the likes strike us, here we lie,

I may die on a nice fat hamsterled.

That's Business

When you get the half of opportunity in the game of business, don't stand and hold it while half the country romps across the plate. Use your wings and fly. If you do, you will be successful. If you think you will do the same, you will be beaten. If you may be mistaken, but take the chance. The probabilities are that you will do some good if you are fit for the game at all. You certainly won't do any good holding the ball. That article is a good find, but it's the man who is ready to act at once who gets the inside track, and what's more, he is the man who keeps it.

You are not experimenting on yourself when you take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for a cold as that preparation has won its great reputation and extensive sale by its remarkable qualities and its singular action. It is equally valuable for adults and children and may be given to young children with implicit confidence as it contains no harmful drug. Sold by dealers everywhere.

LAST BUFFALO HUNT

THIRTY-FIVE OUTLAWS WILL FURNISH THE CHASE

A Large Party of Alberta Sportsmen is Being Organized to Take Part in Hunting Down the Last Remnant of the Pablo Herd in Montana.—Buffalo Refused to be Captured.—Will be Last Buffalo Hunt.

Edmontonians will engage in the last great hunt ever to engage a party of fifteen sportsmen, headed by Howard Douglas, Dominion commissioner of parks, will leave Edmonton on the morning of Thursday, November 3, for the Flathead hills of Montana.

Michael Pablo, the Mexican chief who has been sent to transfer to the Dominion government, weary of efforts to capture alive thirty-five tough, wild animals, has agreed to furnish, which have caused all the trouble and stampedede in gathering of herds, has decided to let them hunt.

He has agreed to furnish any person wanting a buffalo a saddle horse, gun and all necessary equipment for a day's hunting, plus five dollars per head. As the hunt alone is worth five hundred dollars and hide one hundred more, the offer of both adventure and profit appeals greatly to sportsmen.

Mr. Douglas has issued a circular setting forth the particulars of the buffalo hunt and calling for applications from those who would like to have a share in replacing, asking for reservations are Sheriff W. S. Robertson, and James Ross, of Edmonton; S. A. Ramsey, of Cold Lake; Walker of Calgary; A. H. Foster and H. Y. Paul, of Wanigan.

Mr. Douglas returns to the city from Wanigan, arriving Saturday evening at the unloading of his consignment of buffalo received at the park last week. The buffalo hunt which Alberta sportsmen will enter in will be the last to take place in Alberta, as on their five head of outlaw bulls have been shot. The remaining fifty head at large on the Montana plains will be easily taken care of. The buffaloes in the world will then be in captivity with the exception of the wool blizzards of the north, which are under the protection of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police and may not be hunted or killed.

COAST TO COAST IN THREE YEARS

President Hays of the G. T. P. Makes Announcement at St. John, N. B.

St. John, N. B.—President Hays, of the Grand Trunk railway, was quoted by the St. John board of trade, Mr. Hays, in speaking of the Grand Trunk system, that the line would be completed from coast to coast in three years, and in addition to opening up a vast tract of fertile land, would bring tourists from all over the world, as the road would be the great scenic route.

He spoke of the government's plan to have the line completed by next year, and said it will carry out St. John would be one of the finest equipped ports, the Atlantic.

Mr. Hays also said trials would soon be running out of St. John over the Grand Trunk Pacific section in this province, but how soon he could not tell until after his inspection of the line.

He paid a warm tribute to Dr. Pugsley, in working the development of St. John, and congratulated the city on having such an able representative in parliament.

The minister of public works and others also spoke briefly.

Ottawa—The appointment of two hundred and twenty-five census commissioners will be begun very shortly by the government. One will be chosen for each electoral district of the country, and recommendations are now being considered. It is estimated that the cost of taking and compiling the census will amount to $1,000,000. A hundred and fifty extra clerks will be engaged for the compilation.

To Bind the Empire

London—Sir C. A. Cipps, M.P., speaking at Slough, and his recent visit to Canada had much to stimulate his interest in the need for some new dealing, seen in the cause of tariff reform and formulating some practical system of imperial federation. Many of his ideas will be longer in delay, than that there was now open and might not remain so an indefinite time.

Missionaries Are Coming

Toronto—Rev. R. P. MacKay, Presbyterian foreign mission secretary, and Rev. J. R. Anderson, Anglican missionary, most recent secretary left recently to engage in a missionary campaign in the west during the winter months. They will be joined at Sudbury by Rev. O. C. ALBERTA FISH NOT PROTECTED
Irrigation Intakes Are Not Properly Screened and Kill Many Fish

Calgary—The fisheries commission appointed by the Dominion government to investigate the fisheries situation in Western Canada held a session in Calgary last week.

The commission was composed of Prof. E. E. Prince, chairman; Judge McGuire, of Vancouver; and Dr. S. G. of Victoria.

The investigation brought out several important points, that the fisheries are in a bad condition for agriculture, and that a salmon abounds in a rare sight; that no one abounds at the regulations stipulations that fish are destroyed wholesale by the irrigation intakes, which within the past twenty years the streams have been almost depleted.

Various remedies were suggested, the chief being the establishment of a federal authority for the propagation of mountain trout, while it was also suggested that the irrigation districts be responsible for the change of fish; that there be a nominal license fee; that there be a close season, and that certain streams be fished for salmon and that certain streams be open for fishing according to the time when the propagation of fish was being practiced in those particular streams. All of these suggestions Judge McGuire duly noted.

WANTS AN IRISH PARLIAMENT
Minimum Demand is for an Irish Parliament and Control of all Pusely Irish Affairs

London—The statement of John E. Redmond, recently made to define his attitude and that of his party on the Home Rule question, has created a great interest in English political circles, more on account of the bearing it has upon the position of the various political parties on the veto question. Mr. Redmond, in his statement, denied all general information which his party were willing that Home Rule should be delayed in the case of Ireland until England, Scotland and Wales also were ready for federal Home Rule.

He also denied that there was a demand for an Irish parliament, an executive responsible thereto, and full control of all purely Irish matters.

COAL

In heating and stove coal we handle the Great Westcoal, which is known to give less smoke and more heat than any other soft coal on the market.

TO GASOLINE USERS

We handle the famous "WHITE ROSE" GASOLINE. This GASOLINE is being used by every aviator, in fact by the one that made the highest record flight on the American continent. He used "WHITE ROSE" GASOLINE. The price may be a little higher than ordinary gasoline, but it is purer, and you get great deal better satisfaction and more power.

Rawdenville News

Mr. Swift of the Grain Growers' Grain Co. gave a lecture here on Friday the 14th inst., the subject being "The Marketing of Grain." An interested gathering of local farmers gave Mr. Swift every attention and agreed with his opinion that the system of grading grain as practiced at Fort William and other points has been a tool in the hands of unscrupulous agents.

Mr. Swift advocated more co-operation amongst the farmers, a larger membership of the "United Farmers of Alberta" and the Grain Growers' Grain Co. of which every farmer may be a shareholder. Mr. Claypool Jr. occupied the chair and the Mines Dewees and Mr. Robert Ras gave a dutiful recitation.

Some fine wheat, oats, flax, potatoes etc. were exhibited.

The prior arrangements for the holding of our 1911 Fair are well under way, an efficient body of directors and other officials has been appointed.

It is understood that Mr. Russell, engineer of the Grand Trunk survey, is progressing favorably since his unfortunate accident. While superintending the grading operations at Rawdenville, he was thrown from his horse and fractured his leg above the ankle.

Mr. Wm. Pieper, hardware merchant has received a very large consignment of goods.

The formation of a pound district for this locality will be discussed at an early meeting of the U. F. A. Many here believe that the time is ripe for something to be done in this direction. We have some wandering bunches of cayuses and cattle that visit us occasionally and are a nuisance to everybody but their owners. An ordinary fence will not keep these animals out, and several crops were destroyed by them this summer, the bachelors suffering most as they are unable to times to be at home.

The crop here is fairly good considering the recent drought, we looked for-a-failure and are well pleased that misfortune did not come our way.

Threshing is nearly finished in this vicinity.

Pert Harding and family visited R. C. Oldham Sunday last.

Robt. Constable visited at J. D. Ward's last Sunday.

The church body at this point has extended a call to Rev. W. H. Bird, the popular preacher who had the work in hand when the church was first organized.

D. M. Stuart's fine new home is completed and the family will soon occupy it. A host of friends will be glad to welcome them back to the community, they are energetic workers in church and social affairs.

In future the Neapolis Sunday School will open at 2 p.m.

P. H. Lantz and family visited at J. D. Ward's on Sunday.

The "Willing Workers" class of the Neapolis Sunday School will give an entertainment at the Neapolis schoolhouse on October 28th at 7:30 p.m. A good programme will be given, followed by cake and ice cream. A good house is desired as the proceeds are for missionary purposes. Everybody come. It will only cost you a quarter of a dollar, with satisfaction guaranteed or your money back.

The provincial department of agriculture has purchased a thousand purebred fowl in Ontario. These will be sold to farmers in Alberta at actual cost in Ontario, the department paying freight to Edmonton. There are now on order at the poultry stations requests for 1,500 birds from the farmers of the province.

L. F. Clarry a lawyer of Calgary will be appointed Deputy Attorney General for Alberta in place of S. B. Woods who resigned last March.

Band Meeting

A well attended meeting was held on Monday night in the Fire Hall to reorganize the Didsbury Silver Band. Mr. Geo. Liesemer acted as provision al chairman of the meeting and Mr. A. Weber, Secretary.

It was decided to ask Mr. W. M. Thompson to act as leader of the band and Mr. Weber was authorized to purchase music under Mr. Thompson's directions.

It was decided that another meeting should be held on Tuesday night next in the Fire Hall and the Secretary, Mr. Weber, will be pleased to hear from all persons in Didsbury who would like to join.

The membership fee was placed at $2, and all those present subscribed this amount.

It is hoped that the townpeople generally will give the band their support in their efforts and help to make it a success.

A Horse Race

A horse race between two prominent young citizens of Didsbury took place on the track on Monday afternoon between a bay horse called Sunny Jim and a black named Black Beauty, the drivers being Sam Spahr and Bob Burdige. Sam was the lucky winner by a nose over Bob, but some of the spectators thought that Sam took advantage of letting his horse run away; however, Sam says that he has money to say that there is 'nt a town horse and driver that can beat him and Sunny Jim. Time of the race 2.04 1/4 more or less, we think.

Sale of Town Lots

The auction sale of town lots in the new G. T. R. townsite of Three Hills was held on Tuesday in the Opera House, Didsbury. The sale was well attended, a large number of prospective buyers from the east country attending. The lots sold for from $1.200 to $200.

Dr. Lackner also held a sale of lots in his subdivision in east Didsbury after the other sale was concluded. These lots brought a good price and the sale was generally successful.

Refused Transfer

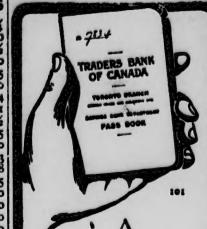

The license commissioners with chief license Inspector Dahl of Edmonton, and Inspector Chamberlain, held a meeting in Didsbury on Tuesday to consider the transfer of the license of the Alexandra Hotel from G. Bourassa to Messrs. Christensen and Matheson. The transfer was not granted.

It is understood that Mr. M. Barrett, the owner of the property, will take over the license and put in a new manager.
